

Sydney Mitchell Employment Armour© Legal Protection for GP Practices

Does your Practice still pay hourly rates for employment law and HR advice? Perhaps your Practice is already on an employment law retainer but you are fed up with having to deal with junior lawyers or legal clerks who are not even legally qualified and know little about the issues affecting the Healthcare profession?

Employment Armour
...Employment Protection
through Legal Perfection

Assuming any of the above applies to you and your Practice then you may be interested in our Employment Armour Legal Protection Scheme.

Our scheme ensures that our retainer is competitively priced whilst still ensuring that you receive good quality legal advice and assistance from one of our experienced employment solicitors who has taken the time to understand you and your business. We are also able to offer the option of additional insurance to protect you against legal costs or a Tribunal award that may be made against your Practice. Our retainer also comes with other optional extras such as health and safety advice and support, a dedicated HR function and referrals to a wide variety of business experts and consultants.

The intention behind Employment Armour is to provide a product that exceeds clients' expectations in terms of price, service and quality of advice.
